Navigating your course

The major content of your course will be located in the middle section of the course home page. The content may be arranged either by weeks or by topics.

Usually you will have course title or welcome message along with News Forum (this is for announcements) and other materials posted by your instructor.
On the left side of the page are blocks such as Navigation, Administration and People. Basically it depends on instructor; whatever they will activate you will see only that.

The Navigation block represents modules week by week with assignments and course activities. The Administration block contains links to your course grades and to your Moodle profile. The People block provides access to student and instructor profiles.

The blocks on the right side depict course activities such as pending due dates and notices of new materials and discussion postings added to the course.
